

Anisa Dhalla
Chief Ethics and Compliance Officer, Americas
UCB

Anisa Dhalla is chief ethics and compliance officer for the Americas at UCB. She oversees, develops, and evaluates the effectiveness of UCB's compliance program for the Americas. As a member of the U.S. leadership team, global ethics and compliance leadership team, and the North American risk management committee, Anisa's commitment to leading ethical and compliant behavior at UCB helps deliver value to patients.

Anisa joined UCB in regulatory affairs in 1998 and moved to the compliance team in 2010. She was appointed as chief ethics and compliance officer in 2016. Prior to joining UCB, Anisa spent twelve years in regulatory affairs roles at other companies performing a variety of roles. She was responsible for oversight of promotional material review, labeling, and global dossier management during her time in regulatory affairs. Today, Anisa chairs the U.S. and Canadian compliance committees and previously served as chair of UCB's Women in Leadership Steering Committee from 2014 to 2016.

Anisa holds a B.S. in biology from Georgia State University with certifications in U.S. Healthcare Compliance (Seton Hall Law) and Regulatory Affairs (Regulatory Affairs Professionals Society).
